The harsh klaxton sounds. The closely-fought basketball game is over and the LeTourneau team has won a victory. The Ladyjackets "high-five" each other and receive congratulations from the enthusiastic crowd of fans.

Ladyjackets' basketball? Women's varsity basketball has arrived at LeTourneau. The University plans to field its first-ever team for the 1994-95 season, and has named one of the nation's most outstanding coaches as head coach for the LeTourneau University

"Ladyjackets."

According to LeTourneau athletic director, Dr. Richard Beach, the team will be led by Mary Ann Otwell, who coached Panola Junior College to back-to-back NJCAA National Championships in 1977 and 1978 and Stephen F. Austin University to the NCAA Final Sixteen in 1981.

"We're extremely fortunate to have a person of Mary Ann Otwell's experience heading up our women's basketball program. Not only does she bring outstanding credentials to the position, she is a person who has a great sense of perspective. She understands the appropriate role of athletics at a Christian university like LeTourneau. I know she will do a superb job of developing our program," Beach said.

Otwell will immediately begin recruitment efforts and is also planning on setting up a full season schedule for the fledgling team ■

The Purpose of Athletics

The intercollegiate athletic program at LeTourneau is an integral part of the total education program. The athletic program emphasizes the same goals and mission as the remainder of the educational program. Its purposes include:

- 1 To enhance the Christian institutional mission and to operate within the guidelines of that mission.
- 2 To provide the opportunity for students to compete in intercollegiate athletics.
- 3 To produce students who are well-rounded through the development of their physical skills as well as their academic abilities.
- 4 To help unify the campus.
- 5 To provide identity and enhance the image of LeTourneau University in the community and beyond.
- 6 To provide athletic competition at a level which is attainable with the stated mission and goals of the University.
- 7 To help recruit students.
- 8 To enhance the spirit and morale of the institution.
- 9 To provide additional extracurricular activity for students.
- 10 To aid in the overall education process of the students involved in the program.
- 11 To develop character in the student athletes.

True to the Mission ATHLETICS AT LETOURNEAU

LETOURNEAU LOSES TWO FACULTY

In less than 48 hours the University unexpectedly lost two faculty members: Craig Nimmo and Jack Ruth. Interestingly, while Ruth had come to LeTourneau only last August to be our missionary-in-residence, he and Nimmo had been long-time friends, having served together for many years in Papua New Guinea with Wycliffe Bible Translators. Today they continue to serve together—before the throne of grace. The University family extends its deepest sympathy to the families of these men of God and rejoices in the knowledge that they are now in the eternal presence of our Savior.

Craig Nimmo dies following clot procedure

Craig Nimmo, instructor in aviation technology, died Nov. 30, 1993, while undergoing a procedure to break up a blood clot. He had served on the faculty since 1989.

Nimmo was born in Darby, Penn. He had served with Wycliffe Bible Translators and Jungle Aviation and Radio Services (JAARS) in Papua New Guinea as an aviation mechanic before joining LeTourneau.

Nimmo was a member of Alliance Bible Church in Longview, where he joyously and actively served as an elder and Awana worker. He was a member of the Celtic Heritage club, and in spite of much kidding by friends and fellow faculty, Nimmo would entertain them by wearing his Scottish garb (including kilt) and playing tunes on his bagpipe. He was also a member of a Tae Kwon Do class held on the LeTourneau campus.

Mention "big-time college sports" and what comes to mind? "Win at any cost?" "Athletic excesses?"

We've heard what happens when athletic programs become more important than anything else. These excesses attack the spiritual and moral fiber of a campus.

We certainly don't want a program where athletics is more important than academics. We are absolutely committed to an athletic program that is positive, balanced and fits into our mission and purpose as a Christian University.

Over the last eight years we have been examining the role intercollegiate athletics ought to play at LeTourneau.

We have learned that if we are going to have an athletic program and benefit from its positive elements, then we have to be competitive. While that doesn't mean we'll win every game, it does mean we should be capable of winning as many as we lose. Our teams must have a legitimate chance to succeed when they go on the field.

We have begun, after very careful consideration, to take steps to upgrade our intercollegiate athletic program and make it more competitive.

That process is ongoing. To ensure we are on a good footing, we first laid down a strong philosophical foundation on which to build. We have identified the goals and purposes (see related article) on which we will build our program. What specifically are we doing—and plan to do—to upgrade?

■ Reintroduce scholarships to our athletic program at a very modest level. Our scholarships are moderate, but make a difference. Scholarships encourage academically sound student athletes to use their God-given abilities at LeTourneau, where they can get a quality Christian education at the same time.

■ Build a new athletic and recreational facility. Our current gymnasium is woefully inadequate. A $7 million project will create a functional, yet state-of-the-art facility to handle intramurals, classes, fitness programs and intercollegiate athletics. We have proposals out and ask for your prayers that it will be funded.

■ Join a new NAIA conference made up of similar schools. We have been an independent, and have found it difficult to field competitive teams against very dissimilar schools. The conference is now in the final planning stages.

■ Add two women's varsity sports. The new conference will require us to add winter and spring women's sports to our women's fall volleyball program. We have made the decision to add a women's basketball team, which will be launched during the 1994-95 season. A women's spring sport—probably women's tennis—will be added in another year or so, once adequate sports facilities are in place to support the team.

OUR GOAL: to provide a well-balanced program that allows for athletic competition, enhances the spirit and morale of the campus, provides a way for LeTourneau to be better represented in the sports community, and to do it in a way that is very compatible with our overall Christian purpose and mission. ■

SOCCER TEAM REACHES PLAYOFFS

Under Head Coach Stephen Barrett the men's soccer team completed a successful season, advancing to both the NAIA district playoffs and the NCCAA regional playoffs. The team finished the regular season with an 11-10 record. "We're very optimistic about next season, with most of the starters returning and some excellent freshman prospects," said Barrett.

He is survived by his wife, Tana, three children and three grandchildren.

During a memorial service held for Nimmo, many of Nimmo's friends, including nearly a dozen students, spoke about what Nimmo had meant to them. Many commented on the way he continually encouraged others, showing care and genuine concern for their problems, no matter what he was going through himself. Lauren Bitkofer, chairman of the division of aviation and aviation technology, compared Nimmo to an eagle. "An eagle knows how to look for the right winds and air columns that will enable him to soar to greater heights than he could ever reach on his own. In the same way, Craig soared to great heights using a power that was not his own, but God's," said Bitkofer.

Jack Ruth victim of heart attack

Jack Ruth, long-time member of Wycliffe Bible Translators and LeTournneau University's missionary-in-residence, died Dec. 2, 1993, following a heart attack.

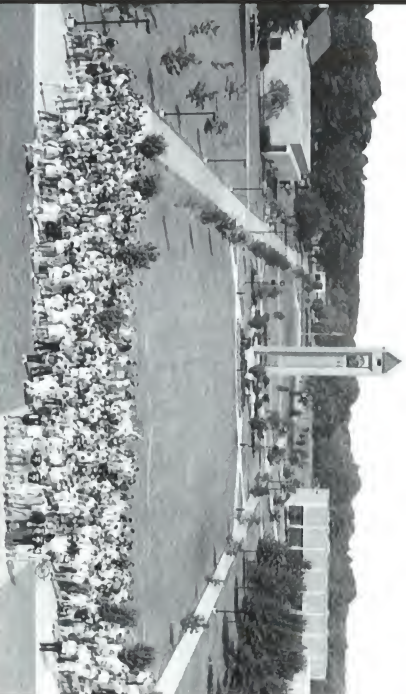

He is survived by his wife, Chic, who continues on as missionary-in-residence, his three daughters, Heidi Ruth Knodel,

Dawn Ruth
Moyer and Joy
Ruth Skinner,
and two sons,
Tim and Toby,
who are

While only at LeTournneau just a few months, the impact Ruth made on the campus was great. Ruth's broad smile, "can-do" spirit and infectious enthusiasm for the Lord inspired and invigorated students. "He was always so excited about everything. He just glowed," said student Bridget Kulp. "Step out by faith" was a motto often repeated by Ruth.

Born in Colmar, Penn., Ruth trained as a civil engineer and put his education to use in the U.S. Army and later for several secular employers. But his call to missions and service in Papua New Guinea with Wycliffe Bible Translators motivated Ruth above all else. His passion was for missions. Through a combination of prayer, encouragement and friendly badgering, he relentlessly encouraged students to attend Urbana, a major missions event sponsored by InterVarsity Christian Fellowship. In years past, a handful of students—never more than half a dozen—would make their way to Urbana. But more than 30 LeTournneau students attended the December 1993 conference, shattering all records for L.U. student involvement.

EVERYONE SAY "CHEESE!"

Resident students gather for a group photo on the campus mall. Spring enrollment figures topped the 1,800 mark for the first time, with 904 students enrolled in programs on campus and 929 studying in Tyler, Dallas and Houston. The 1,833 students represent the largest-ever student enrollment in the history of the University.

Profile on Elliot Johnson

SERMON ON THE MOUND

To the casual fan, sports may be just fun and games, but for Dr. Elliot Johnson, newly-appointed associate professor of physical education and head baseball coach, sports is a powerful vehicle for evangelism and for encouraging Christian growth.

Johnson comes to LeTournneau after a highly successful stint as head baseball coach at Trevecca Nazarene College (Tenn.), where he piled up an impressive 341-165 record. Most recently Johnson assisted at Middle Tennessee State University while pursuing his doctorate. He has received four "Coach of the Year" Awards. Johnson is also the author of eight books plus a number of devotional tracts and booklets which use athletic illustrations to teach biblical principles. Sermon on the Mound, for example, studies Matthew 5-7 using baseball terms. Other books by

Johnson include The Point After

(Zondervan, 1987), and Sports Extra

(Revell, 1989). "I want to use the influence God has given to me as a coach and professor in a way to draw others closer to Him," Johnson said. (A brochure describing Dr. Johnson's books and tracts, along with pricing

and order information, can be obtained by contacting the LeTournneau

Physical Education office.)

ing returning starters Bernie Martinez,

Ruth Burk, junior biology major from Gilmer, Texas, and Dr. Doug Ford, associate professor of chemistry, operate the University's new Fourier Transform Infrared Spectrophotometer (FTIR). The purchase of the FTIR was made possible through a $25,000 grant from the Hillcrest Foundation in Dallas. "The instrument scans the infrared region of the electromagnetic spectrum and is used for analysis of compounds. It will be utilized in chemistry labs to give students an understanding of current methods in modern analysis," said Dr. Richard Johnson, chairman of the division of natural sciences, health and physical education.

In 1990, a group of St. Louis business leaders commissioned the construction of a giant world globe to aid grade school children in their understanding of geography. The globe toured schools and helped students learn more about their world.

But the project ended and the globe was retired to a dusty warehouse. Through a series of events, it came into Duane Meentemeyer's hands. Meentemeyer, who is the father of senior Gregg Meentemeyer, contacted David Luckert, director of student activities and chapel, and offered the globe to LeTourneau.

"My first thought was: 'This would make a wonderful tool to encourage our students to think about missions," recalled Luckert. The globe was displayed in front of the Assembly Building during Missions Emphasis Week. Members of the International Student Organization have volunteered to be responsible for the globe and intend to repaint and update it next summer.

What Do You Do with a 10-foot High World Globe?

David Chatterpaul, a member of the International Student Organization (ISO), shows fellow student Dan Snow a geographic feature on LeTourneau's "World Missions Globe." The globe was donated through the efforts of Duane Meentemeyer of Mt. Pulaski, Ill.

David Pollack: A Heart for MKs

Missions Emphasis Week speaker David Pollack is the one of the world's leading experts on MKs—missionary kids. As founding director of Interaction, Inc. he has traveled the world counseling, giving seminars and consulting with missions leaders on the unique problems faced by children of missionaries and other expatriates.

"I actually prefer the term 'third culture kids' or TCKs," said Pollack. "Children raised out of their parents' country often do not feel they fit anywhere. They can't totally relate to either their home country or their adopted country. They are part of a 'third culture' that has elements of both."

More than 60 LeTourneau students are children of missionaries.

"God Will Never Call You to

Students all over the chapel were glancing at the Missions Emphasis Week bulletin, stopping, then more carefully re-reading keynote speaker David Pollack's message title for the opening address of the 29th annual missions conference held the last week of January.

Pollack's title: "God Will Never Call You to Missions"

Long-time faculty certainly were asking themselves, "How could Pollack possibly say that? Especially at LeTourneau! There are more than 300 LeTourneau alumni who are missionaries. Weren't they all called to missions?"

But as Pollack began to move through his address, the message became clear. Jesus' disciples were called to follow Christ, not a specific job. "Their task was obedience to their Lord," noted Pollack. "Christians are not called, they are commanded. God did not call a few of us to be missionaries. He commanded all of us to preach the gospel. God will never call you to missions. You are already commanded to go—we all are."

Pollock's powerful message was the opening thrust for the 29th Annual Missions Emphasis plus chapel periods where students attend several of more than two dozen seminars on missions. Missions reps fan out across the campus and are invited to take portions of classes through the week. Missions displays are set up in the Memorial Student Center. The week culminates with an Alumni Missionary Chapel on Friday.

"LeTourneau is known as a place that sends out missionaries," said John Galiano, Director of Alumni Relations. "I love Missions Emphasis Week, especially when I hear what God is doing through the lives of our missionary alumni. Missions Emphasis Week is one of the most exciting times of the year."

Do You Know an Outstanding Alum?

Each year the Alumni Association selects the "Alumnus of the Year" from a group of distinguished candidates who have obtained a high level of professional accomplishment and who possess the highest standards of faith, integrity and character.

Candidates for "Alumnus of the Year" must be an alumnus/ae of LeTourneau and should demonstrate continuing outstanding service to their church, their community, their profession and to the University. Above all, candidates must have a strong personal faith in God.

If you know someone whom you believe matches these criteria, please consider nominating him or her for this honor. Contact John Galiano, director of alumni relations or Kendall Harper, alumni relations assistant, at 1-800-259-ALUM for details and to obtain an official application form.

These nominees may also be considered for the University's new "Distinguished Service" awards, which honor alumni who have excelled in a particular career, service or volunteer capacity.

Musical comedy numbers by the LeTourneau University Singers are a traditional and highly popular part of Hootenanny. Throughout the year the Singers present nearly 50 performances in churches, schools, civic clubs and for banquets.

Director of

TRYING TO PLEASE GOD IN '94?

"Let me put this question to you: how did your new life begin? Was it by working your heads off to please God? Or was it by responding to God's message to you? Are you going to continue this craziness? For only crazy people would think they could complete by their own efforts what was begun by God. If you weren't smart enough or strong enough to begin it, how do you suppose you could perfect it?..."

"Answer this question: Does the God who lavishly provides you with his own presence, his Holy Spirit, working things in your lives you could never do yourselves, does he do these things because of your strenuous moral striving or because you trust him to do them?..."

Galatians 3:2-6*

In 1994, let us trust God in all that we do. Let us grow in a deeper relationship with God through prayer and His Word! Let us unite together in Christ, encouraging one another in this world's invisible "spiritual" war.

I pray that God will richly bless you and your loved ones this year!
